CONGRATULATION TO THE GRADUATES OF

The Yearbook Staff of 2005

First we would like to begin with congratulating the class of 2005. You've come a long way! You have endured many challenges, but by keeping focused on your goals you have been able to achieve. Bravo! It has been a pleasure in putting together the memories of laughter and fun you have enjoyed throughout your years here at Berkley Middle School. We hope you enjoyed this year's book as much as we had in putting it together for you. Good Luck & Best Wishes

The Yearbook Staff

It seems as if it were only yesterday we were little fifth graders walking down the halls of the new Berkley Middle School admiring the eighth graders and eagerly wanting to be one of them. However, we never realized how quickly our turn would come.

Now it's time for us to say goodbye to our little school that has practically been our home for the past four years. To say I'm not going to miss waking up every morning and coming here would be a lie. Each morning, as thoughts of the day being over were already entering our heads. What we should have been thinking was that these days were not going to last forever and we should have been appreciating these precious times in our lives.

I think I speak for most of the class when I say that I wish I didn't take these past few years for granted. I'll always remember the closeness we all shared. It was in some ways like having a second family that you knew would be there for you though the ups and the downs, no matter what.

Now, unlike most middle schools, most of us must head our separate ways as we move on to our next venture in life known as High School. No more hi's in the hallway, to the peers we've known for a good portion of our lives, followed by a b risk but somewhat caring "get to class" by a favorite teacher. Gone will be the days of that familiar feeling that when we turn a hallway corner we will see a face we recognize.

I have unsurpassable faith that the class of 2005 will be successful in all we do in our near, yet far, futures laid before us. Remember, the choice is ours.

Our teachers and staff here at the Berkley Middle School have prepared us for the mental and intellectual challenges ahead of us at high school. Their skills, knowledge, and patience have helped us develop into the people we are today. You all have been an inspiration to us and we will not forget you. So, on behalf of the class of 2005, I would like to thank all of you for everything you have done for us. Memories like the ones we've shared here will be forever treasured.

Best Wishes

Jassalyn Pickering, President

Our 2005 Yearbook Dedication

This yearbook is dedicated to Mrs. Frelove. She is without a doubt one of the most altruistic people you will meet.

Her undying love for teaching and admirable interest in helping others are what makes her such a magnificent person. To many, Mrs. Frelove is a mother figure who's always there when anyone needs to talk, never passing judgement on others. She is always open-minded about every situation, and never ceases to see the best in us all, even those with questionable motives. As recognized, there are many fantastic, caring teachers here at the Berkley Middle School, Mrs. Frelove is a fine example of that. Her abilities and qualities are unparalleled. She amazes us all with her intelligence and her vivacious attitude towards life. Words cannot express how grateful we all are to have you as a teacher. You are truly an inspiration, a constant reminder that all of us here can excel in some way. With that said a thanks to all staff members is in place, and a special thanks to Mrs. Frelove. Your excellence in all you do has been recognized.

-Class of 2005

Dr. James has been superintendent of schools in Berkley for the past 10 years, and has coached Mock Trial.

Meeting the Faculty & Staff

Superintendent: Dr. Robert James

Dear Class of 2005:
 Congratulations! We are pleased that you have accomplished so much in your time in the Berkley Schools. I hope that you remember your time at the Berkley Middle School fondly. You will have opportunities and face difficult choices as your future unfolds. As you have done here, remember to share and assist others. Set goals and work hard to achieve them. I urge you to work hard in your high school years and I hope that you will enjoy those years.
 Best wishes,
 Robert G. James, Ed.D.

Meeting the Faculty & Staff

Principal: Mr. Edminster

You have had many lessons taught to you during your four years here at the Berkley Middle School. Some of these lessons have been in math, literacy, p.e., science, art, social studies, computer and Spanish. Some of these lessons will be remembered for a long time and others will soon be forgotten. While these lessons are important, the lesson, "Don't give up on your self," is the most important lesson of all. Not everything in life is easy and sometimes we fail before we meet with success. Always remember to seek help from others and to give any challenge your best effort. You can do it! Mr. Edminster, Principal

Mr. Edminster is a great inspiration and dedicated Principal. His support and compassion for our students, as well as staff, make Berkley Middle School what it is. Always giving graciously, never expecting in return. We thank him for all his hard work! Class of 2005

Tyrannosaurus Reeks!

Using modern materials, scientists recreated what they think dinosaur breath might have smelled like for an exhibit at London's Natural History Museum. Unfortunately, it was so stinky, they had to resort to using a milder swamp smell for the exhibit. ▲

A Tail of Three Comets

Three special comets streaked through the summer sky in 2004. On its own, this fact isn't terribly earth shaking—the appearance of comets in the night sky is not unusual. What was unique about this trio is that all three of these particular comets could be seen with the naked eye. Since naked-eye comets usually pass Earth only once every five years or so, to see three in the span of a few weeks is a rare sight indeed. ►

Gray Wolves Back in the Black

After being hunted nearly to the brink of extinction, gray wolf populations have recovered so successfully in the continental United States that the U.S. government may soon remove them from its endangered species list. Unfortunately, the gray wolf's cousin, the red wolf, continues to be endangered. Long cast unfairly as villains of fairy tales and urban legends, wolves are highly social, highly intelligent animals that hunt in packs to bring down moose, deer and other large mammals. ◀

Suffering Cicadas!

After a 17-year slumber underground, billions of large, noisy periodical cicadas overran large sections of the eastern United States. Although they may give you the creeps, the flying bugs don't bite or sting and generally die about four weeks after emerging. ►

Mt. St. Helens not Being Very Ladylike

Mt. St. Helens vented clouds of steam as magma rose against the crater bottom causing concern about another eruption. In 1980, 1,314 feet of the mountain was blown away in a cataclysmic eruption that unleashed 24 megatons of thermal energy and killed 57 people. ◀

Arctic Glaciers Feeling the Heat

In separate studies, glaciers that were once supported by a floating ice shelf in Antarctica have now been shown to be sliding into the sea. Many scientists are concerned that the melting ice, which could eventually lead to rising sea levels, may be a result of global warming. ▲

Rain, Rain Go Away

Record rainfall and massive mudslides brought death and destruction to California. A stream of subtropical moisture carried by the Pineapple Express jet stream is blamed for the extreme weather. ◀

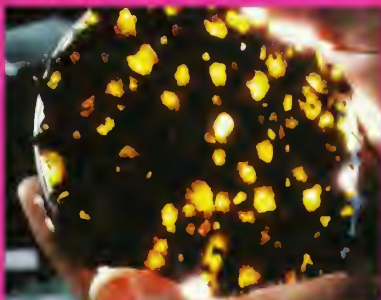

Dino "Soar" Embryo Found

An embryo from a species of flying dinosaur that died out 65 million years ago was found in an almost complete egg in China. Had it lived to maturity, it would have soared the prehistoric skies as a flying lizard called a pterosaur. ▲

Cowabunga! Surf's Up in the Grand Canyon

Scientists released a torrent of rushing water—along with an estimated 800,000 metric tons of sediment—into the Grand Canyon in an effort to help restore beaches and save fish and plants that have been disappearing since the construction of the Glen Canyon Dam. A similar flood in 1996 was later deemed to have been a failure. ►

Meteorite Rocks New Zealand Home

After wandering through space for about 4.5 billion years, a grapefruit-sized meteorite traveling about 300 miles per hour crashed through the roof of a New Zealand home. Most likely a chip off an asteroid, the meteorite is probably older than anything on Earth. Fortunately, no one was hurt by the rock, only the ninth known to have hit New Zealand, which could be worth more than U.S. $30,000! ◀

Jumbo Squid on Ice

A five-foot jumbo flying squid was caught in frigid British Columbia waters, far from its usual habitat off the coast of Baja, California. With a total of seven recent sightings, puzzled scientists have no explanation for the sudden migration. ▼

A Diamond in the Rough

Preliminary tests in Montana have yielded the discovery of a microscopic diamond. And while this isn't the first diamond discovered here, (a 14-carat diamond was found in 1990), it's thought that this new diamond was actually created in Montana, instead of being left behind by a retreating glacier or other means. This opens up the possibility that more diamonds are waiting to be found! ◀

That Sinking Feeling

Warmer temperatures have thawed areas of the Alaskan permafrost (frozen ground that supports the ground above it) causing houses to collapse, trees to sink and giant holes to appear in the ground. About 85 percent of Alaska is covered in permafrost that could be threatened by the possibility of global warming. ▲

The Big Blue Sea

A blue whale, the largest mammal ever to have lived on Earth, was spotted in Alaskan waters, giving hope that the endangered species may be getting healthier and returning to traditional territories. Although they've been protected since 1965, recent estimates show that only about 12,000 of these highly intelligent creatures exist worldwide. ►

Prehistoric Pussycat

In ancient Egypt cats were worshiped as gods. Now scientists think that they have discovered the world's oldest known pet cat on the island of Cyprus. Found near human remains in a 9,500-year-old grave, the ancient kitty predates the Pyramids by about 4,000 years! ◀

To celebrate her 19th season on TV, Oprah Winfrey gave 276 studio audience members the keys to new Pontiac G6's. The lucky recipients were chosen because their friends or family had written about their need for a new car. ◀

Livestrong for Charity

Lance Armstrong wears one. So did John Kerry, George W. Bush and over three million other people. Costing just $1 (with the money donated to help cancer survivors), plain yellow rubber bands featuring the words "Livestrong" became must-have fashion items that motivated charitable organizations nationwide to create their own versions, made with various colors, materials and messages. ▲

Youth Votes for Democracy

Following celebrity incitation to "Rock the Vote" and "Vote or Die," 21 million voters under the age of 30 cast their ballots in the 2004 Presidential election. This figure is up 4.6 million from the 2000 election. According to national exit polls, young people chose the Kerry-Edwards ticket over Bush-Cheney by 54 percent to 44 percent. ◀

Berry, Berry Nice!

The new BlackBerry models feature mobile phone-like design, an innovative QWERTY keyboard, and the ability to automatically receive, process and send e-mails from up to 10 private e-mail addresses with push technology that allows the user to bypass time-consuming log-on procedures to access e-mail. Other functions include a calendar, address book, tools for creating and managing notes and to-do lists, plus Web and WAP browsers and direct Internet access by means of true modern functionality. Phew! ▶

Keeping a Poker Face

With the popularity of television shows such as the Bravo channel's Celebrity Poker, the Travel channel's World Poker Tour and ESPN's coverage of the World Series of Poker, card playing became one of the most popular activities among college, high school and even grade school students. ▲

The Real Thing Goes Low Carb

In an attempt to cash in on the low-carb, low-calorie craze, Coca-Cola launched Coca-Cola C2. Promising all the taste of regular Coke, C2 has half the sugar, half the calories and half the carbohydrates of regular Coke. To stay competitive, Pepsi launched its own mid-carb soda, Pepsi EDGE. ◀

iMac Makes its Big Screen Debut

In the tradition of thinking outside the box, the new 1.8-GHz Apple iMac G5 features a computer built entirely into a 2-inch thick monitor that stands on a curved, brushed-aluminum base. ▲
